WILSON VOICES NEEDED WARNING

Told Pro-League Republicans Why America Should be in the League of Nations

(Associated Press)
Washington, Oct. 27.—President Wilson received today at the White House a delegation of pro-league republicans. This was the first political reception the president has held during the campaign and the first speech he has made since he was taken ill.

ONE WAY ONLY
The president declared the "so-called Americanism which we hear so much prating about now is spurious and invented for party purposes only. There is only one way to assure the world of peace and that is by making it so dangerous to break the peace that no other nation will have the audacity to attempt it."

BE NOT DECEIVED
He warned his hearers to not be deceived into supposing imperialistic schemes ended with Germany's defeat. "There are other nations likely to be powerfully moved or are already moved by commercial jealousy, by a desire to dominate and have their own way in policies and enterprise and it is necessary to check them and apprise them that the world will be united against them as against Germany if they attempt any similar thing."

SHOULD NOT THROW AWAY THE FRUIT OF SACRIFICE
The president said the war will have been fought in vain and immense sacrifices thrown away unless we complete the work begun.

WILSON ILL AND WEARY
The delegates said they were deeply touched by the physical appearance of the president, who received them sitting and plainly showed the effects of his illness. His voice choked when he was referring to the soldiers and their mothers.

CARNIVAL ATTRACTIONS AT THE MARION COUNTY FAIR

The carnival attractions at the thirteenth annual Marion County Fair, November 23-27, will be provided by the famous Miller Brothers. The Miller Brothers are well known for their wild west shows. This year they are carrying four monster riding devices, including the "Whip." There are twelve main attractions, two bands and free acts and numerous smaller attractions. The principal attractions include Miller Bros. Wild West, with real cowboys and girls; Miller Bros. one-ring circus; O'Flarty's animal show; the Old Plantation; Athletic Show; Crazy House; Congress of Wonders; Midget Show; Three Abreast Merry-go-round; Ferris Wheel, and Motor-drome. A special added attraction will be the mother monkey. No immoral attractions will be allowed on the grounds.

Though not billed as such, the mule races are really a circus in themselves and are to be included among the amusements of the fair. The famous army mule has nothing on the mules that are entered in these contests of equestrianism if the rider of a mule may be called an equestrian. The mules are called worse than that by the riders. This year the fair management promises the greatest collection of mules ever corralled—balky mules, skinny mules, bony mules, bucking mules, slow foot mules and just plain mule. The fences in front of the grandstand will be strengthened to prevent the riders from hurdling into the grandstand.

TOUCHING ON THE PRINCIPAL TOPICS

Senator Harding Will Hit Only the Highest Places in His Ohio Speeches

(Associated Press)
Marion, Oct. 27.—The League of Nations, tariff protection, Americanism and constitutional government are the main topics to be discussed by Senator Harding in his final swing through Ohio, ending Saturday.

A TURNING POINT IN AGRICULTURAL HISTORY

There is no power among men equal to personal contact. It was a realization of this fact that caused the federation of labor to move headquarters years ago to Washington. The labor temple is a monument to their foresight and idea of preparedness. They are there in the watch tower of organized wage-earners. Have they produced results? Read the record of the legislation favorable to labor enacted since they established their offices in the national capital. Look at the wage scale, the payroll of American labor for your answer.

The big corporations have always known the power of personal contact with the powers that be and they are always represented at the seat of government. Ninety odd per cent of the long line railroads of America are represented by spokesmen located in the Muncie building. The short line railroads are represented by spokesmen located in the Riggs National Bank building.

The United States Chamber of Commerce is an organization of, for and by the business men of America, commercial and industrial business men. Last year they paid $800,000 for a lot on which to build a palace which is to cost $2,000,000. This is to be the headquarters, close to the lawmakers, close to the heart of the nation, where they can look out for their interests.

The organized farmers have established an office in Washington also. They are doing as others do, but later. They have not as yet financed their project to the commanding position that the others mentioned have.

Thirty of the largest agricultural organizations in America sent representatives to Washington in October to consult with the Federal Reserve Board and the secretary of the treasury to ask that they make operative certain features of laws already enacted, features that would mean millions of dollars to the farmers and no loss to the ultimate consumers of farm products, and they were turned down.

The things asked were: The re-establishment of the war finance corporation which would bring immediate relief by carrying the cotton crop to the cotton mills of the old world and allow them to place their goods on the market before paying for the raw cotton. The lack of ability to finance themselves having closed their operations and paralyzed the cotton trade of the world. The same principle applying to other export materials.

"Every official, with the exception of the secretary of the treasury, indorsed in the strongest terms this proposition," is the words of the president of the American Cotton Association.

And what do you suppose was the defense put up by the secretary? Here it is: "It would not be wise to increase the indebtedness of the governments of Central Europe for the purpose of marketing agricultural products there. I do not think it wise for the government to subsidize our producers or to maintain or increase the level of prices here by stimulating sales to European countries which find themselves unable or unwilling to make payments for their purchases."

There you have it. He doesn't want the markets opened. They are closed. What does bankruptcy of farmers mean to the honorable dignified secretary of the treasury? A man who has been secretary of agriculture and it would seem would have imbibed a reasonable understanding and sympathy for farmers, in his new position of secretary of the treasury, shows a positive antipathy to proposal to save millions to the country without injury to the consuming public, for the consumers will finally pay as much as they would were the crop marketed gradually as the farmers are desirous of doing.

The other thing asked for was the carrying out of the spirit, letter and purpose of the federal reserve law. That liberal extensions of credits be allowed on commercial paper based on farm products which meet the requirements of the federal reserve act, due to the fact that our exports have been blocked by inability of European markets to respond to the demands of trade, for lack of finance.

This was refused also. The only thing left for the farmers to do was to form an export corporation and finance it, opening up the foreign markets in spite of the handicap brought about by the collapse of credits and the depreciation of foreign exchange.

This is under way. It is proposed to capitalize an export corporation for handling cotton for $100,000,000. This effort should receive our utmost and enthusiastic support. If handled honestly and efficiently it will prove the right arm of power for the producers, not only for the present but for years to come.

If the farmers do not support their headquarters in Washington they will take the consequences. Business and political affairs cannot be separated. Farmers should take a lively interest in national legislative matters the same as the industrial employees, the corporations and the commercial world.

COMMUNICATION FROM PRINCIPAL McCALL

I am asking the courtesy of the Star to state, in the main, what I believe to be the attitude of intelligent negroes in regard to the pending election. The view generally held, that they are in politics for the mere sake of politics, is all wrong; theirs is a higher motive. It is entirely true, however, that they regard this as an unusual opportunity for appealing to the latent conscience of the race, and a just and legitimate means of awakening in them a greater interest and pride in the exercise of their rights and duties as citizens, and if they shall succeed in doing this, I believe their fondest hopes will have been fully realized.

Of course negroes at present are republicans in national politics and naturally so; but in state and local elections, they generally vote and scratch the local tickets just as others do; and now, as ever, they purpose to cast their ballots in the interest of the common weal. As an example, some are for bonds and some are against bonds. I beg to state further, that there is not the slightest chance or faintest hope or wish, that the ignorant masses shall come into leadership. The intelligent minority know this, and are fully conscious that no one would have more to dread from such leadership than colored people themselves. Speaking for myself, I am not now and never have been in favor of an ignorant electorate, no matter by whom, by what race or party, but I am not afraid of the man who thinks and votes his honest convictions, though he be opposed to mine.

A COMPLICATION
IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Oct. 26.—A complication in the vote of the Massachusetts members of the electoral college in the event that this state should go democratic in the November election is possible. This because of the inclusion on the ballot, among the democratic candidates for electors for Cox and Roosevelt, of the name of Charles Francis Adams, 2nd, treasurer of Harvard College and skipper of the yacht Resolute in the America's cup races, who had requested that his name be withdrawn.

Mr. Adams said that he had been selected by the democratic state convention without his knowledge, and that he did not wish to stand as a candidate for elector.

The letter requesting withdrawal of his name, according to Michael A. O'Leary, chairman of the democratic state committee, did not reach the committee headquarters until 25 minutes before the expiration of the time for withdrawals on Sept. 30. Mr. Adams was notified immediately by telephone that withdrawal could be accomplished only by sworn statements by the candidate, according to the chairman, but the time limit expired without action, and the name of Mr. Adams was placed on the ballot.

WILLIAMS ENJOYS LIFE OF COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Doorn, Holland, Oct. 8.—The severe restrictions which the Dutch government imposed on the movements of the former German emperor at the time of the Kapp revolution in Berlin, at the request of the allied powers, appear to be gradually relaxing. William now moves about more freely than at any time since he came to Holland nearly two years ago. These movements are, of course, confined to the territorial limits set by a royal decree, including the villages of Doorn and Amerongen, but inside this territory the exile is now fulfilling his dream of living the life of a Dutch country gentleman.

He goes frequently to Amerongen, to visit Count Bentinck, his former host and to chat with the notary, Schroot, who is not only the former emperor's business agent and attorney but also more or less of a personal friend.

William also calls on a number of families of the Dutch nobility who live around Doorn and Amerongen, principally those whose heads belong to the Knights of St. John, the order of which, as king of Prussia, the German emperor was leader.

Dutch guards escort him on these trips but he goes whenever he likes. Doorn has lost all curiosity in the Hohenzollerns and only the occasional tourist halts to stare at William's automobile as it passes in the streets.

MARINES A BUNCH OF MURDERERS

Barnett is Awfully Shocked to Learn of the Depravity of His Erst-while Boys

(Associated Press)
Washington, Oct. 27.—Brigadier General George Barnett, former commandant of the marine corps, told the naval court of inquiry he was terribly shocked by conditions in Haiti as disclosed at the trial of two privates last year. He said there existed a state of mind which might make it possible for any one to be killed. He said that 2250 natives were killed, as previous announcement of over 3000 was erroneous.

An officer of the casualty record office said only a few had not fallen in action with marines or native troops.

FARM NOTES BY THE COUNTY AGENT

From the monthly crop reporter, issued by the bureau of markets, Washington, we get these figures in regard to the northern cabbage crop. For 1918 the production was 41,000 cars; for 1919 31,000, and the estimate for 1920 is 48,000 cars. Plainly, then, a big crop of storage cabbage will be carried over this winter, and indications are not good for high prices on the Florida spring cabbage. There is no reason, tho, for our farmers to conclude that they should not put in some cabbage. By reducing their acreage of former years and by pushing up the yield on what they do plant, the crop ought to be made to pay. Care in the preparation of the land, selection of seed and plants, cultivation and heavy applications of fertilizers are means for increasing the yield. The best crop of cabbage we ever saw in Florida was a field of five acres on dark, flat, sandy land with one ton of commercial fertilizer per acre. The yield was 14 tons per acre and paid well at only $30 a ton for the cabbage.

The old orchards of LeConte and Kieffer pears, that have become so infected with blight that they no longer produce paying crops, can be top-worked to the blight resistant varieties and made to be profitable. For this purpose the Sand, Cincinias and Dixie pears can be used. They are practically blight-proof and yield heavy crops every year. Six Cincinias trees on Mr. J. H. Mathews' place at Candler have borne heavy crops for fifteen years without a single failure. Right near are some LeConte trees that have given only two good crops during the same time. Top-worked trees should produce a paying crop the fourth year from the insertion of the top.

Contrary to the belief of many people, the Marion County Fair is not planned for direct profit to any one. It is an event for the welfare of agriculture and deserves the support of every one. The fair association is out of debt now and any financial profit is to go for building up a better fair. Any one who takes an interest in his community and country should do all he can to help the fair along. The amount of the premiums may not look large enough to him to pay the actual expense of making an exhibit, but the pride and satisfaction of helping to make his community and county better should be compensation enough. It is our county and our fair. Let's all work hard for both. Wm. A. Sessoms, County Agent.

HEALTH MEASURES IN NEW YORK SCHOOLS

New York, Oct. 26.—School teachers will examine every pupil in New York November 9 to determine their physical fitness. The department of health set aside the day to stimulate interest of the teachers in their work, expecting them to more quickly detect physical defects and report them promptly to the school physician.

For 23 years a department of health doctor or nurse has visited each public and parochial school in New York daily. The teachers report to them any child exhibiting signs of illness. Nurses examine all pupils monthly for contagious eye and skin diseases and pronounced physical shortcomings. Those having symptoms of contagious diseases are immediately sent home.

In this way contagious diseases have been held under control here. This was shown in the influenza epidemics which were checked in the schools so forcibly that attendance was proportionately as great as during the same period in other years, and the sickness and death rate was lower in the five to fifteen-year-old group than for any other period of life.

The health department expects to make vigorous search for unhealthy pupils in the future. Most of the men rejected for war service, it has been noted, had defects which could easily have been prevented or corrected during childhood.

WANTS OF JAPANESE WIVES

The following from the Japan Advertiser indicates that the lady of the house in Nippon is much different from the lady of the home in America or England:

One feature of the Diligence Exhibition at Itchigayamitsu, under the auspices of the Girls' Industrial School, is a poster setting forth ten requests that are made by a Japanese wife to her husband. The poster reads as follows:

1. Please get up at the same time I do.
 2. Please do not scold me in the presence of visitors or the children.
 3. When you go away from home, please tell us where you go.
 4. Please let us know when you go out and when you come in.
 5. Please grant me the privilege of a few of my wishes.
 6. Please give me a fixed sum of money for my personal use.
 7. Please do not demand attention from others for things that you can do yourself.
 8. Please refrain from doing things before the children which set a bad example.
 9. Please allow me certain hours for reading and studying.
 10. Please stop saying "Oi, kore," when you call me.
- At the end of these requests was a short note which read: "This may sound rather abrupt, but it is the expression of a sincere feeling of your wife."

Another poster which attracted considerable attention is a tabulation of answers to questionnaires inquiring what is the dearest wish of women. The following answers were received: 980 out of 1000 desired to have new clothes; 720 out of 1000 wished to be able to go to the theaters and other such amusement places; 150 out of 1000 wished to live on especially good food; 100 out of 1000 wished for happy homes; 50 out of 1000 wished to travel; 80 out of 1000 wished to accumulate money.
